thank you Ahmad

To be more precise the vote has also authorised the turkish forces to fight syrain army and PYD :

The Turkish parliament authorized the deployment of troops to Iraq and Syria on Oct. 2 to fight Islamic State militants and other jihadist groups. The decision expands upon a 2013 authorization that allowed Turkey's armed forces to conduct cross-border operations into Syria and Iraq to attack the Syrian army and militant Kurdish forces if its national security were threatened. The motion was opposed by lawmakers from the opposition Republican People's Party and Peoples' Democratic Party. Ankara has worried that engaging the Islamic State would make Turkey a target for the militant group.

To follow !!

Dear Fredric,

- . Turkey's parliament has authorized the government to carry out cross border military operation to fight ISIS in Iraqi and Syria.
- . Fighting intensified in Ain alarb with ISIS advancing and nearly surrounding the city from 3 direction and waiting the opportunity to storm the city .
- . PYD deleared the city as military and asked the people to evacuate the city expecting severe fighting it will be inside the city.
- . Yesterday coalition have struke many targets belongs to ISIS in diff rents area.
  1. Tel- abyed oil refinery.
  2. Munbji AL - tahad university located south east of city. No strike inside the city .
  3. Jarablous water facilities used by ISIS as HQ.
  4. Target close to Tishren dam located 40 km east of munbji.
- . Plant nothing new to report still guarded by masked people from ISIS . The round area claim no activity from both ISIS & coalition or even no activity from public , all villages near by plant evacuated from the people.
